1.0 Introduction

This document describes the major changes made to the FH mobile application (also referred to as "FH").

2.0 Changes

No major changes were made to the FH mobile application. However, the design of FH was not fully implemented. Several requirements were not met – the requirements document has been updated with a "Deferred Requirements" section to outline which requirements are not met by the current system implementation.

Additionally, the FH implementation has not been deployed to production hardware, due to time and cost constraints. In this aspect as well, the implementation does not currently fully express the design.
